Miriam Attia

will lead us in a collection of 19th-century set dances and couple dances--including the polka and that scandalous new invention, the waltz. Miriam received her training in Victorian dance performance as a featured player in Mr. Fezziwig's Christmas parties at California's famed Great Dickens Christmas Fair, as well as through her involvement with Stanford's Viennese Ball Opening Committee. She has taught Victorian dance to groups at Stanford and elsewhere in the Bay Area.

Music by Rare Privilege: Amy McFarland and Maria Terres

Suggested donation is $15 adults/ $10 students and low-income seniors.

No experience necessary, no partner required, period dress optional.

Participants are requested to avoid scented products of any sort.
